Acuster

Timeline

1973

Start of ACUSTER as a manufacturer and distributor of accessories for gas supply networks.

1979

Introduction to the Spanish market of polyethylene items for gas channelling.

1980

Entry into the business of manufacturing and distributing accessories for water supply networks.

1985

Creation of its first range of drilling machines for gas and water.

2005

Start of a new business project, through the acquisition of the ACUSTER Group.

2009

Start of European expansion, through the acquisition of the Flemish company IWMC, a leading company in the welding machinery market.

2010

Creation of a joint venture with SELBA, with the aim of producing and distributing cutting-edge technology to control networks, SCADA and pressure control technology.

2011

Acquisition of the Dutch company TRACON, the second largest European company for repair clamps and accessories. Acquisition of BAHISA, leader in the Spanish market for hydraulic batteries and their components. Acquisition of ESMET, manufacturer and distributor of machining, assembly and hot stamping services of brass (and other metals).

2012

Creation of GLOBAL ACUSTER to centralise and manage the welding tools and machinery business.

2013

Joint venture with the Austrian manufacturer AGRU, for the joint development of the business in Latin America. Establishment in Chile represented the leap for ACUSTER to the American continent.

2014

Creation of the STPACUSTER Group through the acquisition of the STP Group, a leader in the manufacture of polypropylene accessories.

2015

Joint venture with AGRU in Brazil, following the development strategy of the Latin American market.